Over the past century, biopharmaceutical research has helped transform this misunderstood set of diseases into highly treatable conditions. 145 MEDICINES ARE IN DEVELOPMENT TO TREAT MENTAL ILLNESS DISORDERS, including the following:

- ANXIETY
  - Lifetime prevalence rates are 28.8% of U.S. adults and 25% of adolescents are affected.

- ATTENTION-DEFICIT & HYPERACTIVITY
  - 4% of U.S. adults and 9% of adolescents are affected.

- DEPRESSION
  - 6.7% of adults and 12.5% of adolescents are affected.

- SCHIZOPHRENIA
  - Approximately 1% of U.S. adults are affected.

- SUBSTANCE ABUSE AND ADDICTION
  - Nearly 29 million Americans aged 12 and older – or 10.6% of the population – have reported using an illicit drug in the past month.

In fact, 43.4 million American adults experience mental illness in a given year.

9.8 million American adults had a serious mental illness within the past year.

20% of children ages 13-18 have had a debilitating mental illness.

$300+ billion annual direct and indirect costs of mental illness to the U.S. economy.

Learn more about the progress being made and new treatments underway in confronting mental illnesses at PhRMA.org/mental-illness-mid.